CITY ANNOUNCES DROP OF NINE CENTS IN CITY TAX RATE FOR 1930-31

Substantial Saving On Property Taxes Made Possible By Other Revenues of City; Tax Rate Fixed At $1.30 For Old Town

With the 1930-1931 budget completed and ready for adoption at the meeting of the council next Monday morning, a 9-cent reduction in the tax rate is practically assured the taxpayers of Redwood City. City Manager E. A. Rolison announced yesterday.

The total budget is $254,640.18, as compared with $249,853.65, which was the budget of last year. While the budget is higher this year the tax rate will be lower, the reduction being made possible through revenues derived from a stricter enforcement of the business and peddler's license tax. The new budget provides for a substantial reduction of business licenses for Redwood City merchants, the city manager announces.

The new tax rate will be really 14 cents lower this year, because the new levy provides for 5 cents to take care of the interest and redemption of the $55,000 bond issue voted by the people last April to construct new bridges and carry out other needed improvements.

The new tax rate for this year, if the budget is adopted on Monday as presented by City Manager Rolison, will be as follows:

Old Town—$1.30.
New Town—$1.29
South Redwood—
Carmelita Manor—$1.06.

The rate last year was $1.39 for the Old Town; $1.38 for the New Town; and $1.135 for the South Redwood and Carmelita Manor districts.

General Rate Lower
City Manager Rolison yesterday explained that there will be outstanding reduction in the amount fixed for general tax purposes this year. The legal limit is $1.00 but of this amount only 84 cents will be used, as against 97 cents last year.

Assessment Gain
The city shows a gain of $159,910 this year in assessment valuations. The total assessment rolls for 1930-1931 is fixed at $13,248,615. In 1929-1930 the rolls totaled $13,248,615.

Despite the reduction in the tax rate, the city has been able to provide substantial appropriations for a number of permanent projects, including the development of the municipal harbor and the purchase of property for a new corporation yard.

Redwood Woman Dies When Hit By Motorcycle

Visit in England Has Tragically Ending For Mrs. J. B. Burns

Redwood City relatives and friends were shocked over the announcement last Friday that Mrs. Mary O. Burns of 27 Hopkins avenue, this city, had been killed in an accident in England. Details of the tragedy were lacking, the only information received by the family here being a telegram from Mrs. Burns' son, Robert Owen Burns in Greensboro, North Carolina, confirming a cablegram from Miss Angelina Burns, a daughter, who was traveling with the mother, who simply read: "Mother struck by a motorcycle—unconscious to the end. Funeral Salisbury Cathedral."

Mrs. Burns, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Angelina Burns, librarian at the Sequoia Union High School, left here early in June for a six months' tour of Europe. According to the family here, the mother and daughter were to have left England a week ago Monday for Europe. Apparently they changed their plans and remained in England for a longer visit. They were not to return home until November. The cablegram from Miss Burns to her brother in North Carolina was sent from South Hampton, England, indicating that the unfortunate accident took place in that city.

Mrs. Burns was the widow of Major J. B. Burns, who passed away here two years ago. The family has made their home in Redwood City for the past five years. Five children survive. They are Robert O. Burns of Greensboro, N. C.; James K. Burns of Boise, Idaho; and Mrs. Jessie B. Feldscher, Mrs. Mary E. Partridge and Miss Angelina Burns, all of this city.

Mrs. Burns was a native of London, England, she having been born while her parents were on a visit from the United States to England. Mrs. Burns, before her marriage to Major Burns, was principal for a large grammar school in Chicago, Ill.

She was one of the active workers in the Redwood City Public Library and served for several years as the secretary-treasurer of the library board. A woman of sweet and charming personality, Mrs. Burns was beloved by a large circle of friends, who will be deeply grieved over the announcement of her passing.

Former Resident Now Visiting Here

Mrs. Josie Berry, formerly Miss Josie King, a sister of Mrs. Frank Granger, arrived here from Honolulu yesterday accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Cogrove and the latter's three children, the oldest of whom is twelve years. This is the first time the youngster left the islands and it is their first visit to California, visions of which they had for some time. Mrs. Berry was born on King's Mountain and passed her girlhood there. After the death of her husband many years ago, she accompanied by her two small children went to Honolulu. Mrs. Berry is delighted and happy to be here amid familiar scenes. The party is to remain here for some weeks.

Former Local Man Buys Ford Agency

D. M. Flynn, well-known former resident of this city, and former owner of the Ford Agency here, has purchased the Ford Agency of Palo Alto from the Berthold estate. Flynn was one of the fifty who were trying to secure this agency, reputed to be the best in the state, and was enabled to do so because of long and satisfactory dealings with the Ford Company.

Flynn is a cousin of D. P. Flynn, the popular county assessor, and conducted a lively stable here before the auto displaced the horse in popular favor.

TOO MANY HEIRS

CANON CITY, Colo., (UP)—Colorado's loss was a gain for the kingdom of Yugoslavia when S. Yobanovich, council for the royal kingdom, proved to Judge Eiders' satisfaction that 15 heirs of Barbara Barshin lived in his country. If heirship had not been proved, the $2,280.50 estate would have gone to the public school fund.

Strong Support Promised Riley

Candidate for Controller Is Being Aided by Host Of Friends

Reports from all parts of California indicate a preponderance of support for Ray L. Riley in his campaign to succeed himself as State Controller. A host of volunteer workers is mobilized in every county. Riley's support coming very largely from men and women who are familiar with the splendid record he has made for himself as the guardian of the money of the people of California.

Ray L. Riley has had nine years experience as State Controller and is nationally recognized authority on problems of taxation. He has served with distinction as a member of the California State Tax Commission. TWO STILLS SEIZED ON TRUCK BY LOCAL POLICE

Police Nab Truck For Speeding and Find Load of Liquor Making Apparatus; Two Men Booked At Jail For Illegal Possession of Still

A truck loaded with two-250 gallon stills and other liquor making equipment was seized by Redwood City police yesterday. The arrest of two men on the truck was made by Officer Thorpe of the police department. Thorpe noticed an enclosed truck speeding through town and went after the truck to arrest the driver on a speeding charge.

The truck excited his suspicion, and when the driver claimed that he had no key to open the door of the truck, Thorpe ordered him to the police station. At the station, Chief of Police Collins forced the door of the machine, and found the stills within. An investigation of the stills showed that the coils still contained liquor, indicating that the stills had been very recently used.

The men were booked at the county jail by Officer Thorpe on a charge of possessing a still illegally. The men gave their names as Angelo Martini, 33, a merchant; and George Bertoluchi, 34, a rancher.

FREE GOVERNMENT BEING UNDERMINED IS WARNING

Former Governor of Illinois Sees Danger of Loosing Democracy, and the Possibility of a Dictatorship Here

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Aug. 5 (UP)—Possibility of a dictatorship in the United States was viewed by former Governor Lowden of Illinois in his address before the Institute of Public Affairs here tonight.

"We would be blind if we did not recognize the fact that an assault is being made upon Representative Government all along the line," Lowden asserted. He quoted numerous authorities in picturing how this attack is undermining Self Government in Europe. Adding that "in our present mood" the people of this country "are not impressed with the solemn warning"

"We assume," he said, "that whatever may happen to other nations, we are secure. Can we be sure? However, even here in America, that we still hold our ancient faith in the cause of Self-Government? Visitors returning from Europe feel compelled to applaud achievements of Mussolini, though he has overthrown the Representative system of a great country."

"The lesson from all this is that popular government, if it is to endure, must acquire and maintain an efficiency in government superior to that of any autocrat. If the people cannot themselves maintain an orderly government and cannot through Constitutional means secure social justice to the great body of the people, Autocracy in some form is bound to come."

EXPLANATION NECESSARY

THE DALLES, Ore., (UP)—A married couple drove into a service station here. Both alighted for a few minutes. When the tank was filled, the husband got in the car and drove off. An hour later he called from 40 miles distant and tried to explain to his wife, anywhere with almost no forward motion. In other words: The Berry Aircraft is so designed that it can take off from or land on a city street, a small flat roof, a vacant lot, or any similar surface, since it requires no long runway on which to gather momentum.

Going back to the greatest designer of them all "Mother Nature," for his inspiration, Mr. Berry noted that a bird has absolute control in the air at any speed, and needs no large field to take off or land on. In searching for the reason for this, Mr. Berry found that a bird's wing combines lift and propulsion, whereas in an airplane the factors of suspension and propulsion are divorced. When he discovered that, he found the answer to a problem that puzzled the entire flying world for years. By combining wing and propeller in one interrelated unit, suspension and control are obtained regardless of forward speed.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE ACCLAIMS W. P. DECISION

Granting of A Permit for Peninsula Line Considered To Be Turning Point In Industrial Development For San Mateo County

By E. J. HALCROW

Great enthusiasm was expressed at the breakfast in San Mateo this morning when 40 members of the Peninsula Industrial conference met with representatives of the various communities of the district to hear W. H. Curtis of the Western Pacific railroad tell of the expected activities of that corporation.

Judge J. J. Mc Grath, as chairman, notified those present that Curtis was unable to attend and the meeting was continued as a regular session of the conference.

The chairman gave a brief outline of the history and activities of P. J. Aubyn of the Belle Haven corporation. Aubyn read several excerpts from the recommendation of the examiner to the Interstate Commerce Commission pointing out the contrast between the development on the east side of the bay due to the railroads serving that territory and the lack of advancement industrially on the peninsula water front which is undeveloped on account of lack of rail facilities although this is the deep water side of the bay.

Dan Stafford, mayor of Redwood City, presented the need of a union depot in San Francisco to serve the commuters of the peninsula.

Fred Drake of San Carlos, called attention to the resources of this county and the future assured by the building of this road which meant the entry of several lines rather than one.

An appropriation has been made for the dredging of the San Bruno shoals on the west bay shore, according to Drake.

Drake also urged the various civic bodies, through the conference, get together with San Francisco to put over the industrial advertising of the San Francisco metropolitan area which includes San Mateo county.

Dave Walter of Redwood City pointed out the great importance of the Port San Francisco development at Belmont as one of the outstanding features of the industrial development of San Mateo county.

Mayor C. Jordan of Belmont assured the conference of the co-operation of Belmont and agreed to endeavor to have the city become a member of the conference.

Elmore Hinman of Redwood City speaking in support of the union depot presented a resolution urging that such a center be planned for the future, which was adopted by unanimous vote.

Belmont, Redwood City, Menlo Park and Burlingame were accepted as members of the conference subject to approval of the respective councils.

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 7. (UP)—The curtain has been raised on the last act of California's big political drama, the gubernatorial campaign.

For the next three weeks, voters will be harangued by candidates and their supporters as never before, until finally, on August 26, it will all come to an end with the primary election.

Chief interests continue to center in the contest for governor, with Governor C. C. Young, Mayor Rolph Jr., and District Attorney Burton Fitts the principal contenders. And despite his desperate efforts to take his name off the G. O. P. ballot, Milton K. Young, Democratic choice for governor, will also be a republican candidate.

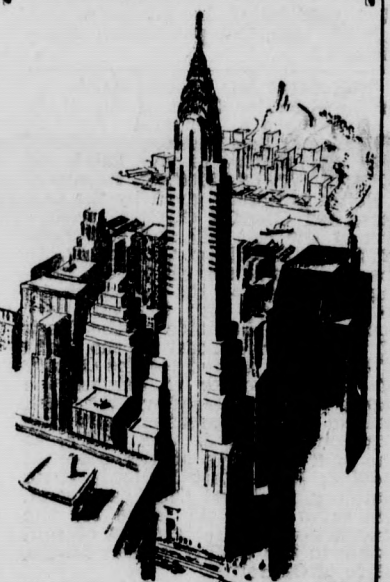

Despite some assertions to the contrary, the campaign thus far has developed several clear-cut issues, such as taxation, cost of government water conservation and crime.

Repeated attacks have been made on Governor Young by Fitts and Rolph, for his taxation policies. They declare the new 4 per cent income tax on banks and corporations has permitted big business to escape with a low tax, and urge that the state surplus of $30,000,000 be spent to reduce unemployment.

The governor retorts that the new tax is a progressive one, and that although some money was lost the first year, $22,000,000 has been saved which California would have lost under the federal court decision invalidating the old tax laws. The legislature only has power to spend the surplus, the governor points out, holding the money is needed for "safe business planning" against a time when the state remodels its ancient tax system.

The governor's reorganization of state government, branded as "bureaucratic" by Fitts and Rolph, is defended as highly efficient, bringing 120 loosely-related state agencies into 13 strong departments, reducing overhead and saving the state money.

Because Southern California will be the real battleground for the big gubernatorial drive, all candidates are moving their forces south of the Teachapi for the final battle.

County Engineer Praised for Work

Work of Geo. Kneese Closely Related to Planning of County Future

Speaking this week before the County Board of Supervisors in Redwood City District Attorney Franklin Swart urged the members of the Board to look into the future and prepare for the early zoning of San Mateo county. The District Attorney said that soon this county, because of its rapid growth and close proximity to San Francisco, would be compelled to adopt a planning method.

He urged the Supervisors to take the planning business under careful advisement and suggested that they consider the appointment of a commission, composed of men familiar with planning work rather than of politicians. He cited the work being done in Santa Clara county as well worth the attention of the San Mateo county Supervisors in building their foundation.

District Attorney Swart told the board that county Surveyor George A. Kneese had done more perhaps, than anyone in the county toward planning for future development. He added that County Surveyor Kneese had attempted to bring order out of chaos by keeping a standard of development in laying out new subdivisions about the county.

This, District Attorney Swart said, would prove of invaluable aid to the supervisors when they were ready to inaugurate county planning. He cited the County Surveyor's efforts to keep some sort of harmony in development as a laudable endeavor and urged developers generally to follow the plan.

In elaborating on the District Attorney's statements County Surveyor Kneese said that when he first came into office 12 years ago he saw the necessity of endeavoring to keep new realty developments to some definite standards. Looking ahead, he said, it was not difficult to foresee that at some distant day the county would be compelled to adopt zoning and development protective measures.

With this in mind, the County Surveyor said, he had attempted to keep developments all over the county in some sort of harmony that would make it easier for future development along restricted lines. This was difficult in many cases, he cited, because of the absence of legislation to force adherence to a definite scheme of things, but he believed much had been achieved despite this.

Aside from the burden of county planners of the future, County Surveyor Kneese pointed out that it will be found to have been a decided economy to property owners. Those who have adhered to the scheme will discover when planning becomes a legislative measure, that they have been spared large sums of money, that their property conforms without alteration to the plan of development that will be law in the future, he concluded.

After a week touring Northern California counties, speaking at Yreka, Dunsmuir, Red Bluff, Chico, Orville and Willows, Fitts returned by airplane to his home in Los Angeles. Rolph made a trip through San Joaquin valley and sped to his southern quarters. Governor Young after a 10-day trip over 10 Northern counties, returned to map the final stages of his campaign.

Leading speakers for the various candidates during the week were: Former Governor George Pardee of Oakland, for Governor Young; Francis V. Keessling, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, for Fitts; and Judge Matt I. Sullivan of San Francisco, for Rolph.

YOUR ICE COMPANY

...A HOME INDUSTRY SERVING YOUR HOME

When you use ice in a modern refrigerator to safeguard foods in your home, it is primarily because you recognize ice as the best refrigerant. You consider the advantages of fresh, pure foods and crisp vegetables, all kept at their best by the safe circulating cold—neither too damp nor too dry—that only ice can give. You are pleased by the fact that ice refrigeration is so inexpensive. And because you would naturally choose ice from the standpoint of economy and efficiency alone, it is doubly a satisfaction to know that your ice company is a home industry—a definite factor of prosperity in your own community. The men who make and deliver your ice spend their earnings and maintain their homes right here in your own state.

Scientific modern ice refrigerators are priced as low as $25 to $65. Why pay more—when extravagant Eastern-built substitutes take money from your district and out of your state. Phone today for particulars.

Trans-Pacific Radio Station To Be Near S. F.

Service To Ships at Sea To Be Feature of Proposed Broadcast

Further details of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's plan for radio telephone service across the Pacific indicate that the American end of the new radio channel will be near San Francisco. San Francisco to Sydney 6272 miles; to Tokyo, 4472 miles; to Manila, 6047 miles; and to Honolulu, 2079 miles are some of the proposed circuits outlined in a report received yesterday by Manager L. C. Brown of The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. Trans-Pacific calls from the Pacific Coast will pass over the Pacific Company's wires to the radio station.

The report indicates also that the American Telephone and Telegraph

Co. will establish radio telephone service from ship-to-shore for both trans-Pacific and Coastwise vessels, and that probably a shore station for this communication will be set up on the Pacific Coast at an early date. Four vessels on the Atlantic now have this service, the Leviathan, Majestic, Olympic and Homeric. A telephone call around the world, covering 21,475 miles, over regular commercial circuits, will be possible when the San Francisco - Sydney channel is completed, together with the London - Sydney circuit now being built by the British and Australian Post Offices.

To increase telephone connections so that ultimately any telephone subscriber may be able to talk with any part of the civilized world, is the aim of the Bell System, says Manager Brown. A world map of radio telephone channels now existing or under construction, or projected, accompanies the report and reveals a remarkable world network of channels.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Field and their two daughters have just returned from New York by way of the Panama Canal. They have been in the East for several months visiting at different points along the Atlantic Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Bishop and daughter are leaving for a year's stay in Europe. They will sail from New York on September 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry MacArthur and Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn MacArthur are at Shasta Springs.

The Woodside Girl Scouts in a body attended the Byrd South Pole pictures shown in Redwood City last week.

A concrete culvert is to take the place of the frail wooden bridge spanning the creek on Portola avenue. Work has already commenced.

The Woodside School building is receiving a complete overhauling in preparation for the coming school term. The interior has been redecorated and a new mission tile roof is to take the place of the old roof.

Mrs. A. H. Audiffred entertained a group of her friends from San Francisco at a dinner given at her home here on Tuesday evening.

Rev. Benjamin St. John returned on Thursday from the church conference at Aeslomar and the regular services will be held on Sunday at the Woodside church.

Miniature Golf Fad Sweeps California

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4 (UP)—Miniature golf which started in California as a fad early in the summer is rapidly entering the realm of big business, due to ever increasing popularity.

No one really knows how many of the "pint" size golf courses dot the state because new ones are springing up everywhere and manufacturers of golf equipment all report inability to fill orders.

Conservative estimates have it that at least 2,000 of the miniature courses are operated in the state. The charge generally made is 25 cents per player and some guessers say that an average of 20 persons play on each course daily. It figures are true, and if anything they are too low, Californians are spending $100,000 daily on miniature golf.

Starting in the southland, the fad for miniature golf rapidly spread into the interior valleys and to the northern part of the state until there are few towns too small to boast of at least one course.

while the cities have hundreds.

The vicinity around Los Angeles still leads the list, due to the balmy nights which permit playing after the dinner hour. In the valleys most of the playing is done at night, due to a pleasant after-dark climate.

Miniature golf courses are of various sizes. Some occupy the space of a city block while others are only one quarter that size. All have a few features found in regular golf, but the element of luck in much greater.

A short putter is the only club used and all courses have nine holes, but the avenues followed between some of these holes are strange and confusing. Frequently a tile, placed at an angle, lies in the pathway and the ball must be driven through it. Some of the holes are up inclines and if a ball is driven too far it bounces back to the bottom again and if the drive is short the same thing happens.

Apparently it is the element of luck which fascinates the players. In any event, they come back for more and bring their friends which explains why most California cities now have fewer vacant lots than a year ago—the lots

Newspaper Men To Meet Governor At Sacramento Fair

Newspaper men of California, other Western states and the Central and Southern American countries will gather at the California State Fair in Sacramento August 8th opening day of the big exposition. They will be guests of the State Agricultural Society and Governor C. C. Young. The day has been designated "Press Day" in their honor.

The program includes a luncheon at which Governor Young, Lyman M. King, director of the state department of finance, and R. A. Condee, president of the State Fair, will be speakers. A section of the grand stand will be set aside for the newspaper men during the afternoon racing and entertainment program, and in the evening they will be guests at the State Fair horse show.

Newspaper men from the Pan now being the location of a miniature golf course.

American countries covering the Reciprocal Trades Conference which will be held in Sacramento during the Fair, will be in attendance. Invitations have also been extended to publishers in all Western states.

The executive committee and Los Angeles and San Francisco governing boards of the California Newspaper Publishers Associations have scheduled a joint meeting at the Fair on "Press Day."

"The newspapers have been a great factor in building the California State Fair to a point where it is classed with the best exposition in America," said President

Condee, "and it will be a real pleasure to have the publishers as our guests."

Senator Phelan Passes Away At Saratoga Home

Former Senator James D. Phelan, well-known figure of California's recent political history, passed away quietly at his Saratoga home. Monday, yesterday afternoon, after an illness which has confined him to his bed for several weeks.

Senator Phelan was born in San Francisco on April 2, 1861. During his adult life he has been closely connected with California history, and has during his entire lifetime been an active member of the Native Sons of the Golden West. His home at Saratoga was named by him after the Spanish author whose once popular fiction gave the name to the state, California.

Senator Phelan's father was one of the pioneer settlers in San Francisco, having come there in 1848 and made a fortune in business in that city during the days of the gold rush. About that time he purchased for $100 the site on O'Farrell street, where the Phelan building now stands.

At the time of the great fire of 1906 Senator Phelan was a leader in the rebuilding of the city and in the alleviating of suffering. Prominent also among his achievements was the passage of the Oriental Exclusion Act.

Senator Phelan is survived by a daughter, Miss Molly Phelan, a niece Mrs. Richard Dole and a nephew, Noel Sullivan. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.
